NICOTINE WITHDRAWAL TIMELINE & SIDE EFFECTS

SIDE EFFECTS YOU MAY FEEL DURING THIS PROCESS:

*NOTE: You may not experience all of these symptoms. Everyone's experience is different.

THE WORST IS OVER. YOU'VE DONE IT! CONGRATULATIONS!!

THE TIMELINE

DAY 1

Expect to feel withdrawal within the first day. As your heart rate and blood pressure begin to normalize, your lungs are pushing themselves to crave another cigarette.

DAY 2-3

Your heart and brain are primed for a couple of days. Frustration and anxiety turn into anger and irritability. Some experience dull headaches as well.

DAY 3-4

Still irritable, and have an almost desperate desire to consume nicotine. By the 24 hour mark, the nicotine is almost completely gone from your body.

WEEK 2

Nicotine is completely out of the body; you may start realize that you miss the habit of smoking, rather than the nicotine. Craving and a new habit such as zero-nicotine vaping may help you through this.

WEEK 3-4

Congratulations, the worst is over. Although the psychological need for nicotine is over, the brain still remembers the mindful of being around triggers that may make you want to smoke again.

Reception TIMELINE

HOOR 01:00

Greet Guests & Serve Food

Whether or not you decide to have a reception line, the first hour is for greeting your guests and allowing them the opportunity to eat before the party gets going.

HOOR 01:15

Toasts & Speeches

A quarter after the hour is ideal for toasting. By this time everyone has arrived and eaten. This is also when songs or poems dedicated to the bride or groom should be performed.

HOOR 01:35

Cake Cutting & Bouquet Toss

Don't make guests wait until the end for dessert! Schedule the main events of cake cutting and bouquet/garter tosses in the middle so no one misses them by arriving late or leaving early.

HOOR 01:45

First Dance & Family Dances

Once the couple's first dance and father-daughter/mother-son dances are over guests can either leave at the two hour mark or join in on the dance floor.

HOOR 02:30

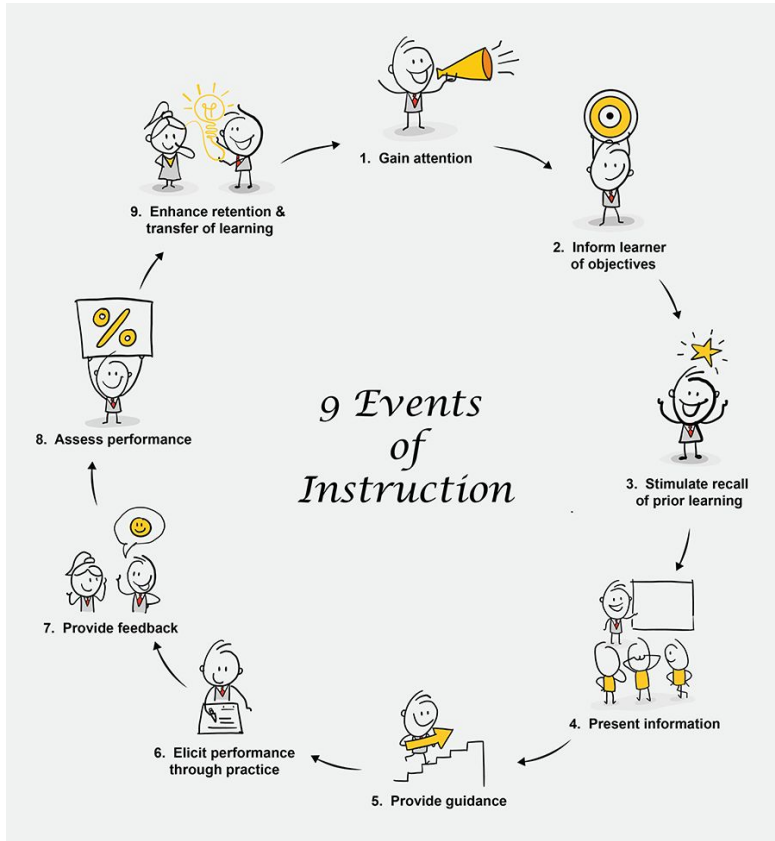

Dancing & Exit

At this point the party is no longer on a tight schedule, so feel free to leave whenever your feet get tired or take off your heels and dance 'til the AM! Just don't forget the honeymoon bag.

- Research and find a subject for this assignment. Examples of Chronological order can be
 - History
